Appropriately scheduled in the week when the world celebrates the Mahatma's 150th Birth Anniversary, the Round Square International Conference (RSIC) at Emerald Heights International school is dedicated to non-violence and peace. The Conference logo which shows the world being raised up by hands from different parts of the world, signifies that we should mould the world and ourselves into what we wish to see.

The Emerald Heights RSIC promises to be a truly global experience, an amalgamation of different communities and religions. The highlights of the conference will be community service, inspirational speakers, historical visits and activities.

The conference will be arranged in four discreet units to ensure a 'family feel' with the all the benefits of a large conference. The idea is to have four mini-conferences within one large conference. The RSIC2019 will have world renowned speakers, barazzas and rikkas and will help bridge individual and cultural differences. During the course of the conference a platform shall be provided, where problems faced globally can be discussed and possible solutions identified. The conference will feature sessions to understand and discuss implementation of the Round Square Discovery Framework including the RS IDEALS.

The program will also create a community service experience for all delegates. A visit to the city of Mandu, which has great historical significance in India, has also been planned. Every evening there will be a gala theme dinner on campus depicting the different states of India with a local market set up and cuisine specific to that area will be served accompanied by local cultural performances.
